A Festival of Fall Fun!

Gather round for some good old-fashioned fall fun on The Disney Channel! Thrills, chills and treats galore are in store for you this month!

Roy Scheider on The Disney Channel!

It's World Series time again! Get out to the ball park, join the fans and root for Roy Scheider and 12-year-old Justin Henry in "Tiger Town." They've teamed up for a story that will have you cheering! Scheider's an aging Detroit Tiger who's down on his luck, Henry's a fatherless boy who teaches him an important lesson about belief in oneself. "Tiger Town," a Disney Channel first, delivers as much excitement as a ninth inning homer with the bases loaded.

The Headless Horseman Rides Again!

Fasten your seat belts for a wild ride with two unforgettable characters in "The Adventures of Ichabod and Mr. Toad." Hang onto your hat (and your head) as Ichabod Crane, the gangly schoolteacher from Washington Irving's spooky tale "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow," gallops, trots, races, stumbles, skids, swerves and screeches across the countryside on a pell-mell escape from the terrifying Headless Horseman. Then breeze down the highways and byways of England with Mr. Toad, the playboy from Kenneth Grahame's beloved "Wind in the Willows." Toad's tearing around by cart, boat and car get him head over wheels in trouble and will have you head over heels with laughter.

Halloween Hilarity and Haunting Entertainment

Put out the welcome mat for your favorite Disney villains. "A Disney Halloween" pays tribute to the scamps and scalawags, rogues and rascals, witches and wizards who have contributed their particular talents for trouble to Disney cartoons and animated features. These no-gooders are up to their usual mischief, and that means unusual entertainment for you.

An old tale takes on a new look in THE DISNEY STUDIO SHOWCASE presentation of "Hansel and Gretel." This daring new version of the Grimm brothers' story employs a sophisticated visual twist: Japanese performers play the familiar characters on highly-stylized, surrealistic sets. It's paired with "Vincent," an award-winning, clay-mation spoof of the Vincent Price genre of horror films narrated by the venerable master of madness himself.

If out-of-this-world characters and odd occurrences tickle your fancy, you'll love our ghostly lineup of films this month. Go haunt-hunting in an abandoned house with a couple of city boys in "For the Love of Willadean," strike up an acquaintance with some anxious spirits in "The Amazing Mr. Blunden," and conspire to stop a boys' academy from going coed with some shady schemers otherwise known as "The Ghosts of Buxley Hall."

Mysteries your forte? Meet Mickey Raymond, heroine of "Trenchcoat."

Witches, ghosts and spectral riders head for a night of revelry on Bald Mountain

Mickey's a would-be detective story writer who travels to Malta to research her next project and stumbles onto a criminal conspiracy that uses every trick in the book to hush her up.

A Cornucopia of Color and Excitement

Feast your eyes on a tantalizing array of short films, featurettes and cartoons shown between the movies and at regularly scheduled times throughout the month. Explore the world of Disney magic with Hayley Mills (all grown up and as charming as ever) in "Disney Animation: The Illusion of Life." Witness nature's drama firsthand in "Seal Island," an Academy Award-winning documentary. Enjoy a good laugh with cartoons overflowing with humor like "How to Be a Detective," "Dad, Can I Borrow the Car?" and "Dragon Around." Make the great outdoors your playground with Warren Miller's "Colorado Colors," and "Movement and Motion." Then thrill to the beauty of some of the world's most magnificent scenery in "Grand Canyon." This photographic symphony depicts the grandeur of the canyon's many moods to the evocative music of Ferde Grofé's "Grand Canyon Suite."

October's the month for customs, festivals and fall fun and The Disney Channel has a bountiful harvest for you! ♥

ROY SCHEIDER

"I've always wanted to write a good baseball story. I love the sport..."

Roy Scheider, the celebrated star of "Blue Thunder," "All That Jazz," and a string of hit films going back to "The French Connection" and "Jaws," once told a reporter:

"I've always wanted to write a good baseball story. I love the sport and I don't think it's ever been done really well in the movies."

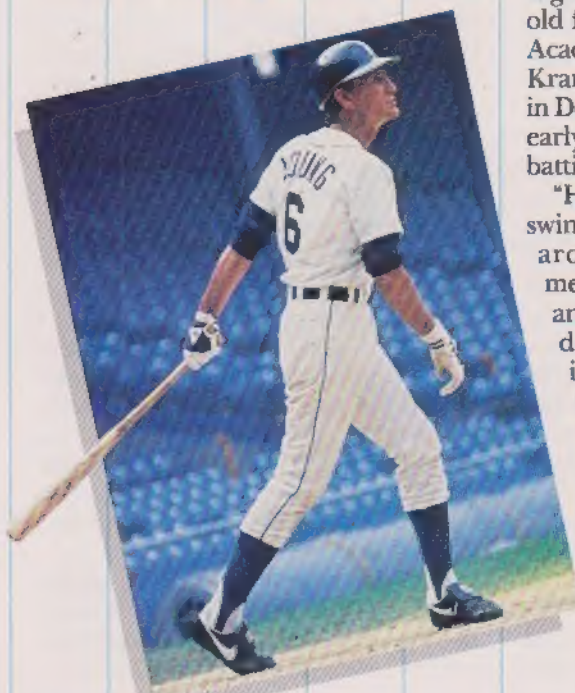

Six months ago Scheider answered a phone call from Susan B. Landau, an old friend and young motion picture producer.

"She asked me how I'd like to do a film exclusively for The Disney Channel, playing a baseball player with the Detroit Tigers," he said. "Like everything I do or don't do, it always rests with the script. I read the script of 'Tiger Town,' I thought it was charming, honest, inspiring, touching, and sentimental in a very good way. And because I love baseball, I fell for it hook, line and sinker. And I said, 'I'll be there.'"

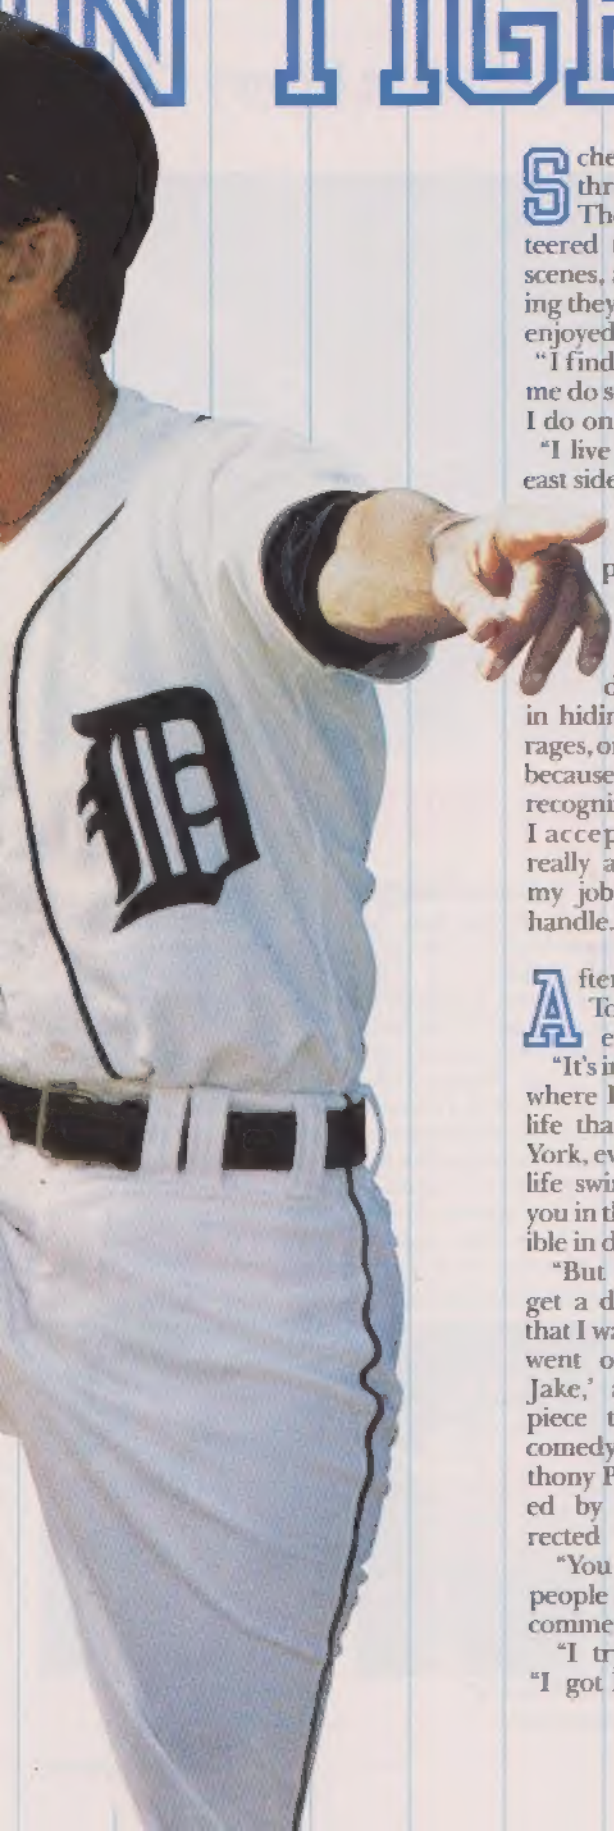

Scheider plays Billy Young, an aging right fielder who dreams of winning the American League pennant before ending his legendary career with the Tigers. He's also idolized by a 12-year-old fan, played by Justin Henry of the Academy Award-winning "Kramer vs. Kramer." "Tiger Town" was to be shot in Detroit, and Scheider arrived a week early to practice with the team and its batting instructor Gates Brown.

"He told me I had a good natural swing," Scheider said. "He didn't mess around with that too much. He messed around with my footwork and my quickness. And within two days I was standing at homeplate in Tiger Stadium, and I hit one right down the left field line. It was a combination of getting wood on the ball and getting a good swing, and it was perfect. I couldn't believe what I had done. It was a tribute to Gates' instruction. I got other hits afterward, but I never did that well again."

"...I thought it was charming, honest, inspiring, touching, and sentimental in a very good way..."

IN TIGER TOWN

Scheider was a public attraction throughout the location shoot. Thousands of local extras volunteered to fill the stands for baseball scenes, and during the breaks in filming they crowded around Scheider. He enjoyed their attention.

"I find that most people who approach me do so because they like to see what I do on the screen," he remarked.

"I live in uptown New York, on the east side, and I've lived in every part of the town for the last 10 years so I know the city pretty well. I go everywhere I want to go. I do attract attention here and there, but there's a way of handling it. I don't believe in hiding, or going with entourage, or dodging certain places because you're afraid you'll be recognized. That's no way to live.

I accept that adulation, which is really a wonderful thing, as part of my job, something I'm supposed to handle."

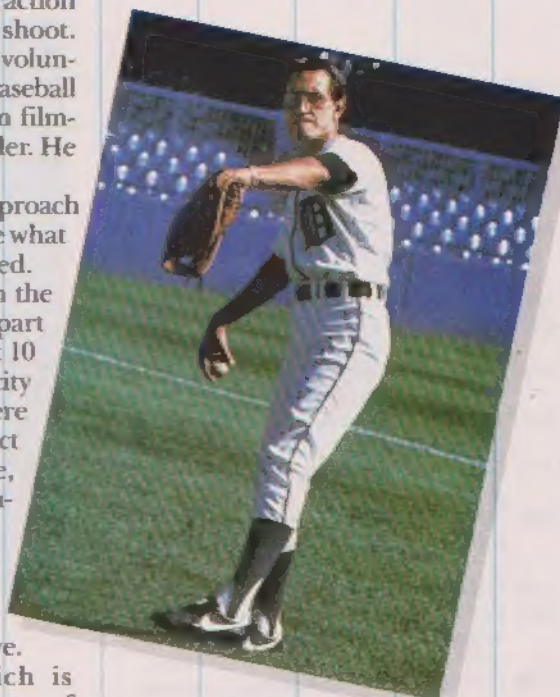

After completing his role in "Tiger Town," Scheider headed for Beverly Hills, a city he rarely visits.

"It's important for me to be in a place where I can observe the struggle with life that goes on every day. In New York, every time you walk out the door, life swings a big shovel and smashes you in the face. That struggle is not visible in downtown Beverly Hills.

"But I'm in the process of trying to get a distribution deal on a picture that I want very much to do," Scheider went on. "It's called 'Everything's Jake,' and it's a small character piece that's sort of a romantic comedy. It was written by Anthony Palmer and will be directed by Peter Medak, who directed 'The Ruling Class.'"

"You get some pretty classy people around you," a listener commented.

"I try," Scheider answered. "I got Disney, didn't I?" ♡

"...And because I love baseball, I fell for it hook, line and sinker..."

THE FIRST MOTION PICTURE CREATED EXCLUSIVELY FOR THE DISNEY CHANNEL

(Roy Scheider, Justin Henry,

Ron McClarty, Bethany Carpenter)

Begin the battle of the big leagues with "Tiger Town," a baseball drama about a fading player and a wonder-working fan.

Billy Young (Roy Scheider), 39, is ending a brilliant career with the Detroit Tigers. But he's never won a pennant, and with his team wallowing in a mid-season slump it seems unlikely that he ever will.

Twelve-year-old Alex (Justin Henry) is a die-hard Tiger fan who is convinced that a true believer can make anything happen. He idolizes Billy Young, and during one discouraging game Alex concentrates with all his might on the aging player. Miraculously, Young hits a homer.

Now, whenever Alex is in the stands beaming his mental pep talks, Young delivers. But when the boy is absent, Young's winning streak vanishes. In the last inning of the pennant game, the Tigers need three runs to win. Young steps up to bat—and Alex isn't around. You'll gasp at the outcome of this breathtaking baseball thriller.

The idea for "Tiger Town" came to its 25-year-old writer-director, Alan Shapiro, in four words: baseball, kid, Al Kaline. Kaline, a legendary diamond star who played most of his career with the Tigers before finally realizing his dream of winning a pennant and a World Series, is one of Shapiro's sports heroes. The role of Billy Young is loosely based on Kaline, and actor Roy Scheider wears a duplicate of Kaline's uniform with its identifying No. 6.

"Tiger Town" was filmed at Tiger Stadium and at other landmarks in Detroit. Tiger manager Sparky Anderson, sportscasters Ernie Harwell and Ray Lane, and singer Mary Wilson make cameo appearances. Besides the Tigers, the Baltimore Orioles, Cleveland Indians, Milwaukee Brewers and California Angels are featured in the movie. October 9, 11, 13, 15, 17, 20, 23, 25, 27, 29

TRENCHCOAT

(Margot Kidder, Robert Hays)

What do you get if you cross Sam Spade and Philip Marlowe with a dash of Lois Lane? Haven't a clue? It's Margot Kidder as Mickey Raymond, a gorgeous if gullible gumshoe who's up to her secret decoder ring in international espionage.

Kidder plays an aspiring mystery writer who finds herself caught in a conspiracy far more lethal than any of the insidious plots of her unpublished books. Together with co-star Robert Hays, she must fend off a nefarious collection of killers and criminals, assassins and double agents, in a mad flurry of narrow escapes, frantic chases and deadly confrontations.

Hot on a killer's trail, Margot Kidder plays it cool

A recent film release, "Trenchcoat" was photographed against the exotic backdrop of Mediterranean Malta. The result is a carefully constructed, fast-paced whodunit sure to delight that special streak of super sleuth in everybody.

Robert Hays Dreams the Impossible Dream

"Trenchcoat's" Hays

Robert Hays has a recurring nightmare.

"I dream that I'm surrounded by producers and other industry people," he says. "They're all pointing at me and saying, 'You're busted, you stupid jerk. You can't act, you've been faking all along, and we're going on prime time television to tell everybody you're lousy!'"

It has to be a dream, of course, because Hays is among Hollywood's most popular and successful young stars. He's been in that glittering galaxy since "Airplane!," his first feature film, although his career began long before then and has swept him on to such current hits as "Trenchcoat" with Margot Kidder and "Scandalous" opposite Sir John Gielgud.

"They're both rather lighthearted mysteries, well-seasoned with laughs," Hays says. "I enjoy comedy, but I get ticked off when people ask me if I've ever done anything serious. Most of my TV roles were pretty straightforward."

Hays, the son of a Marine colonel, grew up leading the nomadic life of a serviceman's kid. He is still restlessly active. He's a qualified scuba diver, airplane pilot and race car driver, and for his second competition behind the wheel of his Toyota Celica he won the 20.2-mile celebrity warm-up event before the Long Beach Grand Prix. Hays, who admits that he gets a kick out of meeting superstars, had the pleasure of outracing such rivals as Gene Hackman, Paul Williams, Larry (CHiPS) Wilcox, John (Dukes of Hazzard) Schneider, astronaut Pete Conrad and rodeo champ Larry Mahan.

DRAMATIC CONCLUSION OF FRANKLIN'S LIFE STORY BENJAMIN FRANKLIN: THE STATESMAN

(Melvyn Douglas, Michael Learned, William Shatner)

Spend a provocative 90 minutes with Ben Franklin, as the mini-series on his remarkable life reaches a dramatic conclusion.

Growing old now, the ailing Franklin (Melvyn Douglas) has returned to America. A charming, still brilliant curmudgeon, he is worried about maintaining unity among the separate states. Although not entirely pleased with the final draft of the Constitution, he uses his power and prestige to help influence its acceptance...and follows the state-by-state ratification avidly, keeping a bedside score.

Methodically Franklin puts his affairs in order. He supervises reconstruction of his house, dictates his autobiography, fights for money owed him, and watches with affection and approval as his precocious grandson Benny shows signs of following in his own political footsteps.

Douglas's multifaceted performance appropriately rings down the curtain on this amazingly diverse statesman who figures so prominently in the origins of America.

THE EXPLORERS

"The Search"

Tuareg tribesman has lived with obscure tribes throughout the world.

Adventures begin this month when Paul Dorsey — a leading Alsatian ethnologist, writer and filmmaker — visits the proud Tuareg, a warrior tribe of the Sahara who are masters of the desert yet slaves to their endless search for water.

Dorsey then travels to Nigeria to document the Dogon tribe's bizarre festival for their recent dead.

His journey ends at the ancient city of Mohenjo Doro ("Mound of one Dead") within the Indus Valley on the India-Pakistan border. Clues to the downfall of its remarkably advanced culture crop up in the waterways and masonry buildings discovered by archaeologists in the 1920s.

LUCKY LUKE: 'BALLAD OF THE DALTONS'

(Animated Feature)

Lucky Luke and Jolly Jumper get the drop on the Dalton boys

Make way for Lucky Luke, France's answer to Bat Masterson, Texas John Slaughter, Wild Bill Hickok and any other frontier town-tamer you care to name. Here's a rip-roaring Disney Channel exclusive, loaded with laughs and starring the most popular cartoon cowboy in Europe.

Maurice De Bevere, a Belgian comic strip artist, created Lucky Luke in 1946 as a takeoff on Hollywood's wildest, wooliest western heroes. Three French film makers turned him into a movie star in 1971. Since then he's been translated into 22 languages and become familiar to fans throughout the world.

In his American debut last month, The Disney Channel finally brought Lucky Luke to the country where he's lived all his cartoon life, yet had never before been seen. He returns this month in another skirmish with the four outlaw Dalton brothers, talking cowboy English like a true son of the golden west. Will Lucky Luke, who shoots faster than his own shadow, beat the unbeatable odds against those varmints? Find out in this new Disney Channel animated comedy.

THE MAKING OF

We're really excited about "Five Mile Creek," our new dramatic series premiering next month. Let us take you to Australia for a behind-the-scenes glimpse of this spectacular production.

You'll meet a troupe of locationers stationed 30 kilometers north of Sydney. They're shooting one of the most ambitious series ever created for cable TV—an epic of frontier life on the rugged Australian outback in the 1860s.

Major sets represent the harbor town of Port Nelson, the mining camp of Wilga, and the lonely stagecoach stop known as Five Mile Creek. The Concord coach that carries our ever-changing cast of travelers from the seacoast to the gold fields is an original.

As you watch "The Making of Five Mile Creek" you will see special effects technicians using wind, lighting machines, and tons of cascading water to create the life-threatening sea storm that opens the series.

Among the drenched actors are Jay Kerr, Louise Clark and Priscilla Weems, portraying Americans on their way to a new, adventurous life. Australian stars include Rod Mulliner and Liz Burch.

Prince Valiant

(James Mason, Janet Leigh, Robert Wagner)

Based on Harold Foster's long-running comic strip, "Prince Valiant" abounds with swashbuckling duels and spellbinding action. It was photographed along the rugged English seacoast and in ancient British castles, and is recommended by the National Education Association as a rich, storybook film the entire family will enjoy.

(Richard Basehart)

Return to 19th century America where, in the midst of a country divided by political strife and bitter hatred, one man fights for his personal convictions—and nearly loses his life.

Lambdin Milligan (Richard Basehart) is a successful, prominent Indiana lawyer when the Civil War breaks out. Staunchly opposed to both the war and the draft, Milligan sympathizes deeply with the plight of the Confederates and actively supports them in numerous secret societies.

Governor Morton, a

Attorney Milligan lands on the wrong side of the law ruthlessly ambitious politician, has Milligan arrested by the Union army, hastily tried, and sentenced to hang. But does an army have the authority to try and execute a civilian during wartime? The question quickly develops into a fiery debate of national scope, until nothing short of a Presidential pardon can possibly save Milligan from the hangman's noose.

Don't miss this stirring drama of one man's battle for justice: the true story which became a cornerstone of American Civil Rights Law.

A MUNSTER MOVIE STARRING THE ORIGINAL CAST

THE MUNSTERS' REVENGE

(Fred Gwynne, Yvonne DeCarlo, Al Lewis, Sid Caesar)

Shudder deliciously, laugh delightedly as the creepy Munster family meets mad Dr. Dustin Diablo.

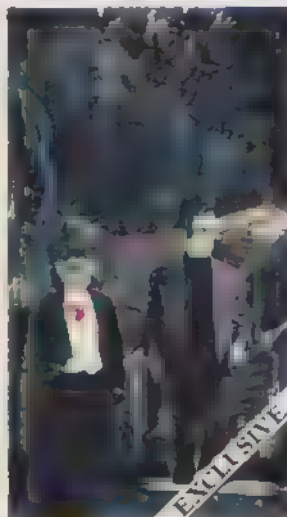

Dr. Diablo (Sid Caesar) uses classic robot monsters from a wax museum to launch a crime spree. Two of them, unfortunately, look exactly like Herman "Frankenstein" and Grandpa "Dracula" Munster (Fred Gwynne, Al Lewis). In a comic case of mistaken identity, Herman and Grandpa take the rap for the robots.

Luckily they escape from jail, but with the cops in hot pursuit. Meanwhile niece Marilyn Munster (Jo McDonnell) has persuaded a police detective to help her clear the family name. A frantic game of cat and mouse ensues, with Herman and Grandpa attempting to corner their robot clones in a screwball odyssey that takes them back to Grandpa's Transylvania haunts while Dr. Diablo hatches yet another plot.

"The Munsters' Revenge" was written and produced by Arthur Alsberg and Don Nelson, who also wrote "Herbie Goes to Monte Carlo," "Gus," "Hot Lead and Cold Feet" and "No Deposit, No Return" for Walt Disney Productions.

Get set for a half-hour of sparkling hilarity when Donald Duck and the gang pull the cork on comedy!

Don's both host and star of this cartoon show, which begins with a Chip 'n' Dale adventure, "All In a Nutshell." Don steals the chipmunks' supply of acorns to make nutbutter, they steal the nutbutter from Don, and the merry mayhem rages until Disney's querulous quacker lands in a river

There's more trouble ahead for the Duck when he tangles with a baby carriage and a barber chair in a museum of "Modern Inventions." This leads to an encounter with his friend J. J. Fate, a spectral duck who's blamed when

Donald gets into hot water in "How to Have an Accident at Work."

Donald finally throws in the towel and turns the show over to Mickey Mouse and Pluto, who meet a strange Australian emu in "Mickey Down Under."

The Ghosts of Buxley Hall

(Dick O'Neill, Victor French, Louise Latham, Rad Daly)

Prowl haunted Buxley Hall military academy in this "spirited" comedy.

When the school falls into financial difficulties, its headmaster is obliged to merge with the Wakefield Academy for Girls and go coeducational. This disturbs the watchful spirits of Buxley's three founders, who return in the form of ghosts to repel the tide of females and protect the academy's time-honored traditions.

It takes an alliance between the ghosts and a 13-year-old student to solve the bewildering problems besetting Buxley Hall.

(Be sure to ask permission before using any of the materials mentioned here.)

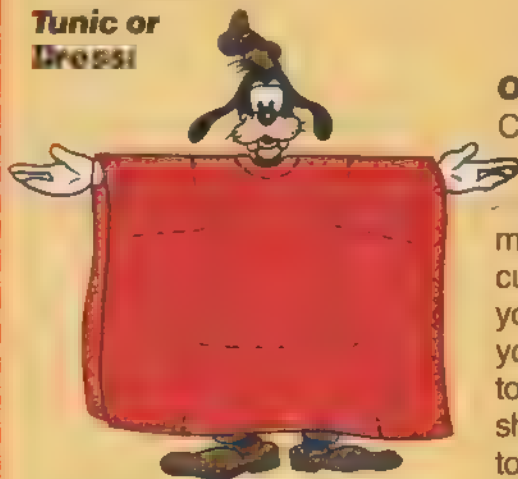

Watch "Prince Valiant" October 3, 5, 9, 11, 14, 17, 19, 22, 24, 27

Materials Needed:

- An old sheet or 1¼ yards of 36-40" lightweight material.
- 1¼ yards of heavy material, OR two bath towels. (Ask Mom FIRST!)
- Heavy string or cord.
- Two 36" x 20" sheets of black or brown construction paper.
- Also: Glue, masking tape, scissors, needle and thread, chalk or crayon.
- Cardboard and aluminum foil.

Directions:

Tunic or Dress

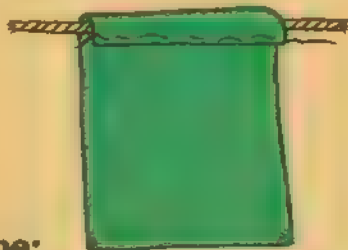

1. Fold material or sheet lengthwise. Lie down on top with neck on the fold. Ask an adult to draw an outline of the tunic or dress around you. Cut out and glue or sew edges.

2. Turn right side out. Glue, tape or sew sleeve edges and hem. Decorate with paper or fabric scraps. Belt dress.

Overtunic:

Cut rectangle twice the length from your shoulders to your knees. Fold material and cut a hole for your head. If you use bath towels, sew short ends together, leaving a space for your head.

Cape:

If using towels, sew long edges together. Place a long piece of cord or string along short side one inch from the edge. Fold fabric over string and tape or sew. Pull ends of string to gather material around your neck.

Boots:

Fold paper in half lengthwise. Cut as shown. Glue cut edges. Remove shoes; slip boot top onto leg, put shoes back on. Tape bottom flap of paper together under your shoe.

Crown and Sword

For crown, cut a narrow strip of cardboard long enough to circle your head. Staple or glue ends together. Cover in foil. Decorate with buttons or beads for jewels. For sword, cut the shape you want, cover with foil and decorate hilt with buttons or beads for jewels.

SPOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOKY DECORATIONS

After you finish the activity on the other side, cut out these pictures. Tape the Headless Horseman and Ichabod together along the top and sides. Do the same with Mickey and Donald's nephews. Stuff decoration with tissue paper leaving the bottom open so they can stand alone. Wouldn't they look shivery-delightful on top of your TV?

Mr. Toad's Party Tips!

A party for your family or friends makes a nice (and safe) way to celebrate Halloween. Mr. Toad likes parties, too! He's gathered some great ideas from all his Disney Channel pals for you to enjoy!

ICHABOD'S INVITATIONS:

Inflate orange balloons but do not tie. Draw a jack-o-lantern face on one side and write the party information on the other with a black marker. Deflate balloon and mail in an envelope.

DAISY'S DECORATIONS:

(See page 25 for a fun decoration to make.)

Ghostly Greeter:

Ask an adult for an old sheet and several plump pillows. Place pillows in an upright position in a lawn chair and drape with sheet. Tie a cord around the upper portion to make a head. Pin or glue black cut-out eyes and mouth to make a face. Put a welcome sign in its lap.

GOOFY'S GAMES

Funny Fortunes:

Hang a sheet in one corner of the room to make a gypsy tent. Dress up as a gypsy. Gather many small items and place in a paper bag. Have guests come to your tent one at a time, close their eyes and pick something from the bag. Make up a fortune about what they choose. (For example, a small toy airplane means a long trip; a doll means a dozen children; a piece of old jewelry means wealth.)

Pumpkin Treasure Hunt:

Cut out lots of small construction paper pumpkins. Write numbers on them. Hide them around the house. Give guests 5 minutes to find all the pumpkins they can. Total up the numbers on each person's pumpkins. The person with the highest score wins a prize.

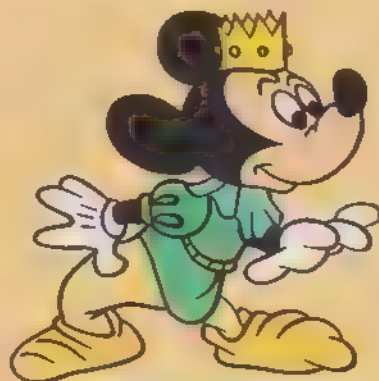

MICKEY'S MUNCHIES

Jack-o-Lantern Fruit Cups:

Wash and dry one orange for each guest. Ask an adult to cut off the tops and scoop out the insides. (Save.) Fill orange shells with fresh fruit chunks, berries and pieces of orange. Put top back on. Draw faces on orange shell with marker pen.

Pumpkin Ice Cream:

Allow a pint of vanilla ice cream to soften at room temperature for 30 min. In a large bowl mix ice cream with 1 cup of pumpkin pie filling and 1/2 cup chopped nuts or raisins. Pour mixture into individual dessert cups and freeze. Top with whipped cream.

Dear Friends:

On behalf of the folks at The Disney Channel, I'd like to welcome you to a unique, collaborative adventure in family entertainment.

In this section of the magazine, we can tell you what's happening at The Disney Channel and why. We also provide a space for you to communicate to us.

You can expect to learn special information such as our reason for delaying the start of the Roy Rogers series. We felt that you would enjoy these movies more if you first got some background on them from Roy and Dale personally. So next month you'll see a special in which they share their fondest and funniest memories and selected sequences from their favorite films--all as a prelude to the Roy Rogers series December premiere.

But this section is designed for two-way communication, so we've included two departments--"You're Talking-We're Listening" and "We're All Ears"--where we get to hear from you. Be assured that no comment from our subscribers goes unanswered.

But talking and listening to each other is just a part of it. We are formulating exciting plans to put you in The Disney Channel picture. This month you'll see selections from hundreds of drawings sent us by young viewers in brief clips called A SMALL WORLD. This will be shown at various times throughout the day, and regularly after WELCOME TO POOH CORNER week-day afternoons. See "Donald's Channel Chatter" for details on submission of drawings for A SMALL WORLD.

We're also planning contests, games and special activities to enhance your enjoyment of The Disney Channel. We'll be bringing you "Disney Dollars," redeemable for Disney merchandise, "Mickey's Birthday Messages" to make your children feel extra special on their day, plus a pen-pal program that's educational as well as just plain fun.

The Disney Channel is your channel. We invite you to "come along and join the fun." We encourage you to help us find new ways to fill your viewing needs--and together we can create a bright entertainment future for all of us.

Sincerely,

Linda Palmer

We're All Ears

PROGRAMS OFFER FAMILIES QUALITY TIME TOGETHER

We just received The Disney Channel Magazine, needless to say we are all enchanted by The Disney Channel and we are very glad that we finally have The Disney Channel Magazine!

Since we got The Disney Channel we hardly watch any thing else. We don't mind watching a good show several times. Our children watched "TRON" several times and they loved it. My oldest son said it was the best movie he ever saw!

Our family is a fine example of a dream come true. My husband came from Canada in 1965. I came from Cuba as a refugee 21 years ago. We are not rich but we have accomplished a great part of our "American Dream".

The main reason we are successful in our goal is because we live in America and we believe in the American Dream. We have the faith and the freedom to reach the moon and the stars if that is what we want to reach. I don't believe there is another place on earth where a person has as much opportunity to accomplish his or her dreams.

We enjoy the shows which allow the family to participate with material from the magazine. We have family home evenings, and The Disney Channel has added so much to them. (Sometimes it's not family night, it's afternoon or even morning!)

Thank you very much for giving the American public the opportunity to have such fine home entertainment. Keep up the good work. We are looking forward to seeing many great shows in the future on The Disney Channel.

Mr. & Mrs. J. B. MacDonald
Leisure City, FL.

TRUSTED ENTERTAINMENT

Thanks so much for allowing such special shows to be televised.

Disney is a trusted name, and The Disney Channel is excellent! Although we haven't watched it continually each day, I know that I can trust The Disney Channel to be safe and interesting for my four children to watch.

I get very little done watching with them.

The Montgomerys
Santa Rosa, CA

TEEN RESPONSE TO DISNEY CHANNEL FILMS

I like most of the shows and the movies that you show. I'm 13 years old and I still like The Disney Channel. I have a whole bunch of friends that like it too. They are going to talk to their parents about getting it. We all agree that we would like it even more if you put shows on for older kids.

Mr. Richie Beuck
Sumner, WA

The Disney Channel films are selected for their all-age appeal. However, teen viewers might make a special note to watch "Tiger Town," "Trenchcoat" and "Third Man on the Mountain," as well as the other exciting movies scheduled this month.

Truth serum hits Margot Kidder in "Trenchcoat"

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE MAGAZINE

A couple of ideas I would find helpful for your Magazine are: 1) in the description of your programs, give a general idea of what age group would be interested, 2) Many of your movies come originally from books. What I intend to do is read the original book to the children at bedtime after they see the movies. Television is fine, but the art of reading should be encouraged.

Theresa Stiner
Endicott, NY

We agree about the need to encourage reading! You'll find a special section entitled "Find It in the Library" in the "Just for Kids" Section of the magazine. Our programming is arranged according to the time of day different age groups watch television the most.

REAL LEARNING VALUE

The Disney Channel is everything I knew it would be.

Besides being a prime source of entertainment for each member of the family, it is also a valuable learning tool for young children. To that end, we have added another cable outlet so that our children can watch in their rooms.

Mr. David Keil
San Francisco, CA

SCHEDULING CHANGES SUGGESTED

We really enjoy The Disney Channel. It's great family entertainment, of which there is very little on TV anymore. However we feel there should be more variation of programming during each month. We think during the month each movie is shown too many times. Any consideration would be appreciated. Thank you again for your fine TV programming.

Steven Behr
Orlando, FL

I'm writing to let you know how I feel about your channel and your magazine. We love the magazine and thank you very much. Also, I'm so happy that I got this channel. I have 2 children (ages 8 and 6) and they really love it. I wish there were more cartoons for them to watch. Also, we'd like more animal shows.

Olive M. Loupe
Paradis, LA

A lot of you wrote us with similar comments, so we've scheduled more films and featurettes on The Disney Channel to decrease the repeat factor and give you more viewing variety. We also created a brand-new, half-hour animated show called DONALD DUCK PRESENTS, and we've included additional short subjects with our movie presentations.

The Disney Channel welcomes letters from viewers about programming and The Disney Channel Magazine. Letters for publication should be addressed to The Disney Channel Subscriber Services, 4111 W. Alameda, Burbank, Ca. 91505. Letters must include name and city of sender. All materials become the property of The Disney Channel. Letters may be edited for reasons of space and clarity.

Dave Smith, archivist for Walt Disney Productions, answers questions and provides information about the studio's history and its productions.

Walt Disney got the idea for the ride while visiting Alpine locations for "Third Man on the Mountain" (see page 10). Actually filmed on the lofty Matterhorn and other Swiss Alps, the movie was adapted from James Ramsey Ullman's best selling novel, "Banner in the Sky."

Ullman happened to be vacationing in Zermatt at the foot of the Matterhorn while the film was being made, and the director, Ken Annakin, gave him a cameo role as an American tourist. Look for Helen Hayes in an uncredited cameo with her son James MacArthur, who stars in the picture. It was their first screen appearance together. Seen briefly in the same scene with Miss Hayes is actress Joyce Bulifant, who was married to MacArthur.

Will we see the classic Headless Horseman story this Halloween?

Yes, The Disney Channel will be showing the original film in its entirety.

"The Adventures of Ichabod and Mr. Toad" (see page 13), first released in 1949, is a classic of Disney animation with the two separate world-famous stories, by Washington Irving and Kenneth Grahame, complementing each other.

The Headless Horseman is one of Disney's scariest villains, so his exploits are a natural for showing at Halloween. What do you think—was he real, or simply a hoax created to scare gullible Ichabod Crane?

DISNEY TRIVIA FOR OCTOBER

...Bing Crosby's rendition of Katrina from "The Adventures of Ichabod and Mr. Toad" (see page 13) was recorded and became a hit after the film's release.

Others recording the song were Lawrence Welk, Tex Beneke and Kay Kyser.

...Goofy made his debut in a Mickey Mouse cartoon entitled "Mickey's Revue" in 1932.

...Tim Considine, who played Spin Evans in the Mickey Mouse Club "Spin and Marty" series, originally was tested for the role of Marty Markham.

...In the Halloween cartoon "Trick or Treat" (see page 6), you might recognize the voice of June Foray as Witch Hazel. She later was known for doing the voices of Natasha and Rocky on "The Bullwinkle Show."

...One of the more interesting inventions of the Disney animation department was transparent paint, used effectively for the ghosts in "Lonesome Ghosts" (see page 6).
